

SURRY HOSTS IMPACT BASEBALL SHOWCASE

Dobson, NC- The seventh annual Impact Baseball Pitcher-Catcher Showcase was held at Surry on January 24. The event featured the top pitchers and catchers from the area and also included several of the top position players. Over the past six years, more than thirty players that have attended the event were selected in the Major League Baseball draft. The showcase has also featured former Surry pitcher Aaron King, a seventh round draft pick of the San Francisco Giants. Another former Surry signee, Chris Luck also attended the showcase prior to being selected in the 20th round by the Tampa Bay Rays. “We felt extremely fortunate to assist in hosting the Impact Baseball Pitcher-Catcher Showcase,” stated Surry head baseball coach, Jamie Lowe. “This gave us an excellent opportunity to showcase our baseball program, campus, and the community.” Several players had outstanding performances including West Forsyth sophomore Adam Griffin (94 mph), Randleman senior Daniel Tuttle (92 mph), and Forsyth Country Day senior Chris Munnely (90 mph). Wesleyan Christian senior Wil Myers also showed the skills that have him projected as an early 2009 draft selection. “Surry was a wonderful host, and we hope we can continue to hold events on their campus in the future,” stated Andy Partin, Impact Baseball President.
